CRYSTAL CASINO

Originating as a group of friends from GWU, The Crystal Casino Band combines the vibes of early 2010s-era indie that littered Tumblr dashboards with increasingly introspective and socially-conscious lyrics. Their music, while both relatable and insanely catchy, is raw and uncut--adding a layer of authenticity and grounding the band firmly in their DC roots.

SAT • DEC 16

MICKEY DARLING

Mickey Darling is a San Antonio, TX based indie-pop duo consisting of Skyler Molina and Austin Medrano. Together the creative duo draw strong comparisons to bedroom pop acts such as Boy Pablo, Gus Dapperton and Rex Orange County.

SAT • JAN 06

TORRES

Julien Baker on TORRES:
 What I can say about TORRES is I think the music comes from a convicted place. Not convicted meaning a person is narrowly and foolishly committed to an ideal, or unshakably convinced of themselves, or a zealot or stubborn. I mean dedicated, I mean: if TORRES' music gets weird, gets brainy, gets funny, gets defiant, provokes, deliberately scandalizes, employs the crass to undermine the austere, courts lofty philosophical truth--it's all done with the conviction of an artist with the (essential) belief in the worth of their task. I think you can hear it in the songs, someone reaching, leaning over the boundary between known and not, probing the almighty.

MYSTERY FRIENDS

Hailing from DC, Mystery Friends makes the fresh synth-pop and disco-tinged tracks you didn't know you were missing. Between the band's album Past and Future Self, their latest catchy single, ride or die, and a very refreshing cover of Britney Spears' Toxic, they have set an exciting precedent for indie music in the area.
